Kerala, the south-western Indian state, has a rich and vibrant Islamic tradition which can be traced back to the period of Prophet Muhammed (peace be up on him). At present Muslims in this tiny state constitute one fourth of the total population and enjoy a peaceful socio-cultural environment conducive to Islamic educational and cultural activities and propagation.

Inspired by such a dynamic tradition, Islamic scholars and educational institutions in the state have given topmost priority to promote and disseminate the pristine and classical creeds of Islam. Highlighting this legacy are over 1000 Darses (traditional Schools) and more than two hundred Islamic colleges functioning across the state.

But the syllabus and curriculum of these colleges require some modifications and upgrading to make them keep pace with time and adapt to the modern education system. It was with this purpose in mind that the Coordination of Islamic Colleges (CIC) was formed in 2000 as a confederation of some Islamic institutes for advanced studies in the state. Registered as per the Society's Registration Act of Kerala government (regi.No:397/04), the CIC is an academic governing body functioning as a university with 33 colleges affiliated to it. The CIC has signed a Memorandum of Understanding for academic and cultural cooperation with the University of Al Azhar in Egypt and has obtained an equivalency certificate from the University of Cairo and Aligarh Muslim University in New Delhi.

The CIC has given shape to a comprehensive Islamic course by combining both Islamic and material streams of education. The course is tailored to mould a promising generation of scholars with in-depth knowledge in Islamic studies and a cutting-edge understanding of the specific pastoral needs of contemporary societies. Those who successfully complete the course are conferred with the title Wafy, derived from the Quranic verse, "...whosoever keeps his covenant with Allah, on him He will bestow immense reward." (Fatah, 10).

We are submitting here the details of the syllabus and course of study, expecting the rewards from the Almighty and seeking His blessings in all our pursuits.
